Art Unit: 1616

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-8, 10-13, 21, 39-45, 49-50, 52-55, 57-61, 63, 65, 67-72, 77 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Arnaud et al in view of Kantner et al.

Arnaud et al claim a lipstick (claim 24). Pigments are specified (column 4 lines 63-64). Parleam is disclosed (column 5 line 45).

Kantner et al teach a polyurethane dispersion useful in cosmetics such as lipsticks for forming hydrophobic films (title, column 5, lines 29-36). H12MD1 is specified (column 8 lines 15-17). Dimer diols are disclosed, including C36 difunctional polyols (column 7, lines 14, 18-20), reading on elected species D derived from saturated hydrocarbon-based divalent blocks from a synthetic oil or hydrogenated polyene in claims 6-8. A molecular weight of 50K is specified (column 13 line 54). Ethanol as a chain terminator is specified (column 12 lines 50-52). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill to use the dispersion of Kantner et al in the lipstick of Arnaud et al for the beneficial effect of forming a hydrophobic film with a lipstick. As to the product-by-process claims, the claimed process is not considered a patentable limitation during prosecution of product claims before the USPTO.

Applicants argue that Kantner et al teaches that stable polyurethane dispersions are especially difficult to form and, therefore, the alleged combination may destroy that stability. Thus, applicants argue, there cannot be a reasonable expectation of success in using the dispersion of Kantner et al in the lipstick of Arnaud et al. However, the Kantner et al polymer is designed to overcome the problem of instability. Applicants argument that the alleged combination might destroy pre-existing stability and that the beneficial effect of forming hydrophobic films might not achieved is mere speculation.

No claims allowed.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
